

Tim Brock

Unlike many other trainers and clinicians, Tim did not grow up with horses. So he remembers and understands what it is like to learn horsemanship from the beginning. This lets him easily communicate with everyday backyard horse owners, giving horse and rider the tools needed to build a useful and enjoyable partnership.

In their years as the managers of an equestrian campground, Tim and his wife Amy saw a need to bring natural horsemanship to trail riders in a way they could understand and use on the trail. Tim's natural ability to see the physical and mental capabilities of the horse and the knowledge of communication needed between the horse and rider make his methods easy to understand and implement.

He now owns and operates BC Stables and Training Center in Fair Grove, Missouri. BC Stables offers training, lessons, clinics, camping and trail riding as well as boarding. You can check out BC stables at www.bcstablesandtrainingcenter.com.
